August Fun for Kids returns to the Oxford Community Center

Registration is underway for the Oxford Community Center's popular August program of activities for children ages four to twelve. The two-week series will be held August 2-6 and August 9-13. Week 1 for the older kids offers a morning and afternoon class; sign up for one or both. Those registered in both may stay for the supervised lunch period from 11:30-12:00.

WEEK 1: August 2-6 for ages 8-12

9:00-11:30 am "Hodgepodge Art"

Creativity abounds in this fun mixed-media class instructed by Oxford artist Jessica Rice. Students will explore a variety of projects from painting to collage. All materials provided. Tuition: $65.

12:00-2:30 pm "Movie Magic"

Learn the basics of filmmaking! Every student will play a role as director, producer, actor, writer, editor, and camera person. Students will produce a short film by the program's end. Instructed by Bruce Grove and Jason Williams. Bruce is an actor/director who has been in over 30 plays and produced over 10 movies. Jason has been making movies for over a decade and brings state-of-the-art camera and editing expertise. Each student receives a copy of the final film. Tuition: $65.

WEEK 2: August 9-13 for ages 4-7

9:30-11:00 am "Books, Bugs & Bogs"

This wetlands stories and crafts program provides an introduction to wetland habitats using developmentally appropriate literature, crafts and activities. Presented in partnership with the educators of Environmental Concern, Inc. Each session includes story time, snack, and take-home craft. Tuition: $45.00
